California Institute for Regenerative Medicine: Stem Cell Agency Board Invests in 19 Discovery Research Programs Targeting Cancers, Heart Disease and Other Disorders

June 24, 2022

The governing Board of the California Institute for Regenerative Medicine (CIRM) announced grant funding to projects in early stage or discovery research, including a $1.2 million award to Tenaya for its gene therapy program targeting heart failure due to prior myocardial infarction.

Read More